Versatile ^{by} nature

Playful and original, you love both, and that's also the message of our new logo. The lowercase "e" represents our basic approach of being down-to-earth and sustainable. From this, just one line creates a soft woollen shape. With just a few good materials, obtained by using gentle and animal-friendly methods, pleasant fabrics for everyday heroes of all ages are created. It really wasn't easy expressing this in our logo! But it was well-worth the effort, wasn't it?

A soft dot is turning into a cuddly, fluffy ball of wool. At the same time, it expresses a certain elegance, in a timeless style – a feeling that we want to share with our customers. We make every effort to maintain the traditions of textile craftsmanship in harmony with mankind and environment. We hope that our new brand image will show our commitment to these values even more clearly as the intrinsic core of our being, with sustainable and certified organic pure merino wool and fine silk. It's not only our fabrics that are soundly woven – we too are deeply entwined with each other. And this we want you to recognise immediately.

hightech ^{by} nature

We think children should be allowed to run around.
Regardless of weather or length of time spent outside.

Our exclusive, ethical and sustainable merino wool has real superpowers. These are put to an even more ideal use in a unique mix of wool and silk. The natural qualities that make the sheep in the uplands of Patagonia so resistant are:

The temperature-balancing effect:

Incredibly soft, fine wool that makes the merino sheep so famously resistant. Their habitat can be subject to dramatic sudden changes in the weather, but due to their wonderful wool, this does not affect the merino sheep: The finely crimped wool fibres are particularly effective against the cold, storing the body's natural warmth; and when the weather is warmer, the fibres can absorb moisture from the body and take it to the outside, creating a cooling effect. Thanks to its very fine fibres, the wool always feels pleasant against the skin, and even people who are sensitive to wool love to cuddle up in it. Our wool is mulesing-free, and the wool-silk mix not only makes it more comfortable to wear – it also supports the temperature-balancing effect. So it's a naturally high-tech fabric combination that's ideal for any requirement. And any weather.

Uncomplicated and easy-care:

Children's clothes have to cope with quite a lot – they must be hard-wearing, flexible and pleasant to wear. But they also need to be easy to care for. Merino wool fibres, both with or without silk, have an unexpected advantage here: The natural, or even high-tech, fibre structures have a very fine crimp. The fine structure also creates the typical, pleasant feeling against the skin, and silk adds additional comfort.

Dirt particles cannot easily stick to the rough surface of the fibre, and therefore the wool is described as 'dirt-repellent'. Usually, the garment merely needs to be aired and brushed to remove any dry dirt. So less washing – and water – is required.

Naturally mulesing-free.
Because our sheep live in Patagonia. The flies that are the justification for the highly controversial practice of mulesing, do not even exist there.

Local, sustainable, fair production.

The sheep providing our wonderful merino wool live in South America. But once the yarn has arrived here, everything is processed in and around Pfullingen.
This is important to us, because we want to have a friendly, fair relationship with all the people who are involved in the creation of our clothing. This is sustainable.

Quality, Planet Earth and humans in harmony.

Come and visit us at Engel and discover a family company that focuses on your needs and the needs of our planet. Let our passion for quality and sustainability inspire you, and become part of our “angelic” community. Together, we work exclusively with high-quality sustainable materials that are good for you and for our planet. Here, the quality (of life) is right. We feel that open communication and equality are vital.

Textiles for a better tomorrow.

We are people who know each other personally – and our production methods are socially responsible, inclusive and to the highest standards.

We love the results which we achieve as a team – from the designer to the sewer, from the purchasing manager to the storekeeper. When real men sew on buttons and clever women plan favourite items and everything runs smoothly, it's more than just a job for us. We are committed to short routes, fair working conditions and outstanding quality. It's worth it!

The Schönberg Tower, the landmark of our home town of Pfullingen, is affectionately called the "Pfullingen Underpants" by the locals. Can this be a coincidence?

Things you can rely on.

Organic merino wool from Patagonia
We visit our shepherds as often as we can. Because we care about the origins of our products and the quality of life of the animals.

Sewn in Pfullingen
The sewers work on our own premises and in small firms who are well-known to us. Fair wages and longstanding working relationships are worth investing in. We preserve century-old traditions in our region and show that textiles can be commercially produced in Germany.

Made with passion
From the first draft when we take our drawings over into the production stage and start mixing dyes to the final finishing touch, when the last button is sewn on – we live for what we do. And nothing is too much effort for us. Although we have to admit: It's also just great fun!

Weatherproof all-rounders – in summer and in winter
Merino wool has a temperature-regulating effect, making it feel even more comfortable. The crimped fibres create little hollow spaces, known as climate chambers, in which the air can circulate. They can store body warmth in cold weather and take it away when it's hot. So heat can never build up, whatever the weather.

Environmentally friendly treatment
We only use environmentally friendly, strictly verified, certified substances for knitting the yarn and finishing the fabric, in other words, for the further processing of the materials. From non-polluting detergents to long-lasting reactive dyes: the fewer chemicals the better.

Strong colours for strong characters – because the little ones are great personalities, too

Rich in tradition.

The tradition of textile craftsmanship that has been in harmony with the environment and humankind for centuries has found its true home with us. Starting with the production and processing of the fabrics right through to the last finishing touch. True sustainability, achieved over decades. You'll feel the authentic, natural quality of our superb materials against your skin, day after day.

baby-soft

Clothes also need to withstand a baby's urge to explore. So that babies can reach and stretch, practice gripping and do yoga like world champions – and stay cosily warm and safe too. That's what makes us get up in the morning.

Merino wool and silk have natural superpowers that our careful processing makes even more effective: The wool, for example, takes moisture away from baby's skin if it feels too warm, so the body temperature remains ideal. At the same time, the fine fibre structures store the body's own warmth to ensure maximum cosiness. And obviously, children get dirty sometimes, which isn't a problem: Wool is naturally dirt-repellent, and often a good airing and light brushing is all you need. Another plus point: Wool and silk are absolutely ideal for providing natural sun protection. With an SPF of 30-50. So no worries all round!

child's play

by
nature

Whether racing through the garden or whispering in a secret tree house, spotting animals in the clouds or running recklessly through the fields: Whatever they're doing, children are supposed to feel good in Engel clothes, protected against feeling too hot or too cold.

The natural properties of our clothing mean that you don't need to worry about anything. The children will have everything they need and the washing machine can stay empty now and again. Airing their clothes after a successful day full of adventures is often enough. Because dirt and bacteria find it hard to get a foothold in the wool fibres. So you just need to brush off the jacket and it's ready for more campaigns to conquer the neighbourhood.

Wrapped up cosy and warm, looking super-cool. With plenty of room to move.

Our sewing experts at the foot of the Swabi-an Alb work in the best conditions – for themselves and for our products. That way, we can guarantee good wages, healthy working hours and superb clothing.

We work hand in hand with our sewing workshops here and are proud to be able to say: We produce truly natural garments and applied the slow fashion approach long before it became a trend. The magic formula is simple: As people, we work with people. At the same time, we offer the best fabrics that are skin-friendly and sustainable, with short transport routes, so we can create the best products to feel good in. The core message behind our natural clothing is a simple promise, and we stick to it: Good clothing for every life.

Nice and warm
from head to hips.

For us, top quality means that all the fibres are dyed and processed in such a way that their natural, wonderful properties are retained as far as possible. Truly sustainable production starts with our healthy and caring treatment of the sheep.

We make sure that the highest quality standards are upheld at every stage of production. The entire production chain is transparent and we have our guarantee claims regularly verified by independent bodies. The most important factor concerning our clothing is having ensured that our production has been consistently sustainable, fair and healthy for over 40 years. Because you deserve it!

Merino wool even keeps out light rain. And stays nice and dry throughout.

To honour our good, long-standing tradition, we plucked up all up our courage and completely revised our visual image. Because people ought to be able to see how we work. Originally a dot, which then fleecily takes shape, consisting of just one line, and soft to look at — our new logo.

We completely rethought it so that we could allow the Engel philosophy to shine out into the world. This way, we are honouring the three most important aspects: We are reining ourselves in, wanting only to take as much from nature as our products actually need. We are focusing on the origins of our work, our materials and the needs of our customers. And we want to remain down-to-earth, with a sense of community and equality. For us, the little “e” stands precisely for this, arising out of just one dot. And at the same time, the playful shape showing a fluffy ball of wool focuses attention on our passion: To provide all our customers with our natural clothing, combining outstanding comfort, natural kindness to skin and simply beautiful outfits.

The waistcoat for all weathers –
with natural superpowers.

casual

by
nature

You prefer a timeless style and don't feel like chasing after every other fashion trend. We feel the same! This is why we go for designs that will really go with any outfit, in soft colours and with clear lines.

His new evergreens

- Timeless style for everyday wear with natural colours for simply great combinations
- Problem-free cleaning: doesn't absorb odours, airing is enough
- Relaxed and cosy

It's not just more sustainable – for having to constantly reinvent ourselves is a waste of valuable resources – it's also much cooler, we think. Once someone has found their casual look, with their favourite basics and subtle details, which is also warm, comfortable and easy-care, is there a need to look any further? Not really. So why not clothing for life. And by the way: Good materials can also be repaired.

Unisex? Obviously.

Society is changing and improving all the time. And if women wear trousers as a matter of course and men have lovely long hair, that's great. So why can't they both share their favourite garment?

OK, but maybe not at the same time. But it's fine to take it in turns. It saves resources, time and money. Especially as there's no better way to say "I love you". We think that sharing clothes is a great idea. A bit like love.

What's the best thing to snuggle up in? This blanket, of course!

Material

Our products can be machine washed using the wool cycle. This is thanks to the award-winning finish Naturetexx®, which uses no harmful or toxic chemicals whatsoever. The natural properties of the fibres are retained.

As ever, our wool consists of 100% certified pure organic merino wool.

Certificates and seals

Made in Germany

We produce our clothing exclusively in Germany in accordance with the highest ecological and social criteria.

Naturally, we obtain our electricity from renewable sources. We have solar panels on the roof and the rest of the power we need is hydroelectric power. And we don't use fossil fuels for heating.

Availability

Because our designs are timeless and our production chain is so reliable, retailers can order and receive deliveries of all articles from our stock all year round.

IVN BEST (Lic. no. IVN BEST: 151702)

The "NATURTEXTIL IVN zertifiziert BEST" (IVN BEST) quality symbol is awarded to textiles that are made completely from organically produced natural fibres. The certification takes into account all the environmental effects of the entire production process, from production of the fibres to the finished garment, along with the prescribed social welfare standards in the companies involved in the process.

In terms of environmental compatibility, social sustainability and credibility, IVN BEST meets the highest ecological standards that can currently be achieved in the textile industry.

GOTS (Lic. no. GOTS: 151702)

Textiles that are made from at least 70% to 100% organically produced natural fibres are eligible for the award of the Global Organic Textile Standard (GOTS). Certification of products is based on fulfilment of environmental requirements along the entire textile production chain plus compliance with social welfare criteria. The GOTS requirements are slightly below those of IVN BEST.
